Interim Management Report

Chairman's Statement

Investment Performance

Shareholders may wish to focus on a number of specific measures in evaluating their Company's performance. These include the amount of income generated and the extent to which this has been distributed to shareholders as well as the movement in the share price, change in net asset value and the volatility and absolute levels of discount at which their Company's shares have traded over the period under review.

In this context, while the Company's revenue return per share of 2.82 pence during the six months ended 28 February 2014 represented a 9.3% decrease on the equivalent figure for 2013, the total return in the Company's net asset value was a positive 12.8%¹ during the period under review, outperforming the 8.8%² total return of the FTSE All-Share Index.

This reduction in revenue return compared with the first six months of last year was largely attributable to changes made to the composition of the portfolio, which had the effect of repositioning a proportion of dividends receivable from portfolio companies into the second half of the financial year. In addition, due to unfavourable market conditions, there was an absence of any option premium income.

The reasons for the net asset value outperformance are more fully described in the Investment Manager's Review.

At the same time, the Company's share price produced a total return of 10.6%¹ during the six months under review and its shares generally continued to trade in a narrow discount/premium range during the period, standing at a discount to net asset value of 1.5% at 28 February 2014, as compared with a premium of 0.6% at the beginning of the period.

Dividends

The Company paid a first interim dividend for the year ending 31 August 2014 of 2.00 pence per share (2013: 2.00 pence per share) on 31 January 2014. The Board has since declared the payment of a second interim dividend for the current financial year of 2.00 pence per share (2013: 2.00 pence per share), which will be paid on 30 April 2014 to shareholders who were on the register at the close of business on 4 April 2014.

Gearing

The Company maintains a credit facility of £15 million, which was fully drawn at the end of the period. As a result, gearing³ of 3.3% at the beginning of the period under review had increased to 6.1% as at 28 February 2014. The ability to deploy gearing is one of the key differentiating factors that investment trusts have over other investment products. The Board has established parameters with the Investment Manager governing its level and use, which it continues to review, including consideration of the employment of longer term debt.

Premium/Discount Management

The Board continued to monitor the share price relative to net asset value during the period under review, during which the Company's shares continued to trade within a narrow range close to parity to net asset value. As a result, while it has not been practicable to issue to new shares during the period, no shares were purchased for cancellation or holding in Treasury.

Outlook

Pleasing as it is to report another double-digit rise in the net asset value per share, there is a sense that the potential for income growth might be at a turning point. Dividends from the UK corporate sector – and the Company's income – have now fully recovered from the last recession, but we wait to see whether dividends will continue to rise faster than inflation in a world that remains economically challenging.

The Investment Manager's Review is relatively reassuring on this point for the next 12 months, while noting a need for corporate profits to improve if this is to continue into 2015 and beyond.

Investment Manager's Review

In the six months to the end of February 2014, the Company's net asset value produced a total return of 12.8%¹. This compares to a total return of 8.8%² from the FTSE All-Share Index.

Market Background

The UK stock market has been moving steadily upwards since last summer, as investors responded more to good news (a recovering UK and US economy, and interest rates staying low) than bad (concern about emerging markets, and occasionally disappointing profit announcements from individual companies).

The Company's outperformance came from a number of the holdings that benefited from the gentle cyclical upturn in the domestic economy such as ITV, Daily Mail, Halfords, Carillion and insurance company holdings. The disappointments were stock specific: Pearson (where a business repositioning has been taking longer than expected), Tate & Lyle (Chinese competition impacting its sucrose business), and SSE (a power company impacted by political risks).

The outperformance led us to take profits in some holdings. Many of the other portfolio transactions related to the receipt of cash and stock from Vodafone's disposal of its stake in Verizon Wireless towards the end of the period. This funded a number of additions to existing holdings, notably Vodafone itself, Pearson and attractively-yielding stocks such as BAe, BAT, HSBC, GlaxoSmithKline, Rio Tinto and Royal Dutch Shell. The gearing was also increased and used to invest in three new holdings: Intercontinental Hotels; Sage, which supplies accounting software; and Wood Group, where management have committed to an enhanced dividend pay-out. We sold Tesco on evidence of further pressure in the food retail sector and the remainder of SSE.

Outlook

Growth expectations for developed economies remain robust, with a gradual acceleration in global growth anticipated in 2015. Central banks are likely to remain accommodative for the foreseeable future. In contrast, many emerging economies are expected to continue to struggle with their transition to stable-growth economies with the added challenge of rising US real interest rates.

In the UK, economic and profit releases continue to improve, and employment has been rising. For this to be sustainable, UK productivity growth needs to catch up with output growth, otherwise inflation could rise sooner than commentators currently expect. Companies with significant overseas sales are likely to see profits tempered by foreign exchange moves. We expect profits growth to be a more important driver of stock performance this year. The recent reporting season provided evidence of this as the market rewarded companies announcing profit upgrades and punished those with downgrades. M&A activity and companies' focus on investment remain positive drivers.

The outlook for dividend growth this year is likely to be similar to last year – higher than inflation but at a single-digit rate. Whilst corporate cash flows and balance sheets have been strong, profitability has disappointed, in part because of the strength of sterling, and this has been reflected in a small downgrading in market expectations for dividends. The test over the next 12-18 months – for both the overall market and for the Company's income – is whether corporate profits grow from current levels. In aggregate we continue to believe that equities are well placed for modestly positive returns, and have topped up positions that are out of favour. Valuations support the current market level but are no longer cheap. Our ongoing attention is to identify companies capable of generating the dividend growth needed to meet the Company's investment objective.
