

Schroder ISF<sup>1</sup> Global Equity Investing for a new era

Schroder ISF Global Equity is an actively managed fund, investing in companies worldwide. It aims to outperform the MSCI AC World (Net Total Return) Index.

The investment landscape is changing from a market led by macroeconomic news primarily supporting US equities to a market focused on company fundamentals. Investors could potentially benefit from this new era by focusing on long-term trends and embracing diversified portfolios. This requires rethinking past strategies.

Why now for global equities?

Global forces

Global forces are driving a fundamental shift of major proportions for markets and societies. These include decarbonisation, demographics and deglobalisation. Cost pressures from these forces and high sovereign debt look set to keep interest rates higher for some time.

Re-think valuations

A recalibration of investment quality, risk and asset mix seems likely. In this new era, company valuations will be at the core, an essential ingredient to achieving successful long-term performance. This sets the scene for a valuation reset and a return to fundamentals-led, active equity investing principles.

Global scope

Achieving success in this era seems more likely with a nimble global equity fund that can adapt to a changeable interest rate environment. A fund focused not just on growth but also on its price ("growth at the right price") is well positioned to reap this new era's opportunities.

Our approach

The 'growth gap' and long-term value creation

We look to harnesses the persistent positive relationship between share price performance and a company's earnings surprise. The fund invests in stocks with a positive 'Growth Gap',

What does the market tend to get wrong?

A growth gap can materialise in stocks due to differences between a company's underlying fundamentals and market estimates. Three persistent inefficiencies cause this:

- 1 Markets over-react to short-term news flow
- 2 Markets over-rely on historical growth, failing to identify catalysts that can alter a company's growth trajectory
- 3 Markets fail to look far enough ahead when appraising a company's earnings

Building the portfolio: from research to a global equity fund

We are a well-resourced, highly experienced team with a global perspective. Our investment process is team based with a focus on bottom-up fundamental stock selection.

Risk Considerations:

Counterparty risk: The fund may have contractual agreements with counterparties. If a counterparty is unable to fulfil their obligations, the sum that they owe to the fund may be lost in part or in whole.

Currency risk: The fund may lose value as a result of movements in foreign exchange rates, otherwise known as currency rates.

Derivatives risk: Derivatives, which are financial instruments deriving their value from an underlying asset, may be used to manage the portfolio efficiently. A derivative may not perform as expected, may create losses greater than the cost of the derivative and may result in losses to the fund.

Emerging markets & frontier risk: Emerging markets, and especially frontier markets, generally carry greater political, legal, counterparty, operational and liquidity risk than developed markets.

Liquidity risk: In difficult market conditions, the fund may not be able to sell a security for full value or at all. This could affect performance and could cause the fund to defer or suspend redemptions of its shares, meaning investors may not be able to have immediate access to their holdings.

Market risk: The value of investments can go up and down and an investor may not get back the amount initially invested.

Operational risk: Operational processes, including those related to the safekeeping of assets, may fail. This may result in losses to the fund.

Performance risk: Investment objectives express an intended result but there is no guarantee that such a result will be achieved. Depending on market conditions and the macro economic environment, investment objectives may become more difficult to achieve.

Sustainability risk: The fund has environmental and/or social characteristics. This means it may have limited exposure to some companies, industries or sectors and may forego certain investment opportunities, or dispose of certain holdings, that do not align with its sustainability criteria chosen by the investment manager. The fund may invest in companies that do not reflect the beliefs and values of any particular investor.
